PROFILE

Interior designer with experience across high-end residential, hospitality and workplace projects in South Africa and internationally. Kevin combines design development with the practical side of projects — construction drawings, joinery detailing, specifications, materials, costing, procurement coordination and site work. His experience includes working with architects, engineers, contractors, suppliers and client teams, from early concepts through to documentation and implementation. Kevin offers a wide range of abilities within the Interior design space and as evident in his work experience has expanded his portfolio through his willingness to extend himself while navigating varied and challenging projects. Kevin's particular passion lies in Jugendstil, with its organic forms, expressive craftsmanship, decorative detailing and relationship between architecture, interiors and art. He is particularly interested in translating these historic design principles into contemporary interior spaces.”.
